Report 3

This week we worked on the documentation of the wireframe and user stories. The concept of the user stories are basically a short, simple descriptions of a feature told from the perspective of the person who desires the new capability, usually a user or customer of the system are short, simple descriptions of a feature told from the perspective of the person who desires the new capability, usually a user or customer of the system We also have the logo finalized the logo and the name of our project. The project is going to be called Underdogs. The final logo is in our folder.

In the upcoming week we are going to be finalizing the documentation, user stories, wireframe, and come up with a dictionary/user guide for the website.
