Report - Week 1

The project teams primary focus this week was to provide the entire team with a vision for the final product. We have prepared a wireframe for much of the site which we hope will function as an illustrative example of the features that we are looking to provide to our users.

Please take some time to review the wireframe here:

We have also prepared a site map which you will find in this repository to act as an aid in visualizing the linked pages in our product.

This weeks inter-team communication consisted of working closely with the Front End team to give them a vision of where we are headed. We also met with the Quality Control team to discuss features that will be available to our users so that they can start planning some of their tests.

This coming week, we have a few goals:
- Finish wireframe for the rest of the pages on the site
- Write user stories
- Work with the Front End team to continue progress of materializing our ideas
- Maintain an open channel of communication with all teams and addressing any of their questions and/or concerns
- Design templates for our registration confirmation and notification emails
- Agree on a final name and branding for our product

The product team is looking forward to working with all of you towards making this product a reality!
